By BURTON HAWKINS, COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 19.-Fraining its heavy ammunition on Maryland's boxing team after an early blast nearly capeized its hopes, Coast Guard Academy mittmen courageously came back to earn a 4-4 draw with the Old Line larrupers in the feature of a double-header attraction tonight at Ritchie Coliseum before 3,000 spec-

Maryland's basket ball team swung the twin bill to the Terps, easily shellacking Dickinson tossers, 57-27, in the card's opener.

It was sturdy Bob McClelland, Coast Guard heavyweight, who climaxed the uphill struggle of the New London, Conn., cuffers by outclassing Joe Henderson and thus snatching a stalemate. McClelland nicked Henderson freely with a right to the head, but the Terp mysteriously remained on his feet to hear the decision go against him.

Dorr Has Close Call. By the grace of a rather dubious decision, George Dorr, Maryland's 115-pound clouter, placed Maryland in front by trouncing Willie Morrison, former Eastern High track athlete. Morrison's crisp right-hand blows were equally as effective as Dorr's southpaw socks, and the cleancut Coast Guard lad seemed to rate no less than a draw. Neither was featherweight, arose from the canvas only to walk into a paralyzing solarplexus kayo wallop authored by Bob Goering in the third session.

Bradley, in the third, was holding his own with the curly haired southpaw, but Goering caught him coming off the ropes with a sizzling left to the stomach, and Bradley went down after one minute and 18 seconds.

Alperstein Scores T. K. O. Bob Prause, Coast Guard lightweight, elected to exchange blows with Benny Alperstein, national intercollegiate lightweight champion, and learned the folly of his way after one minute and seven seconds of the second round, when Referee Charley Short rightfully stopped the scrap. Blond Dick Cox. Marvland 165pounder, outpointed curly-haired Harry Frazer. Cox dropped Frazer for a count of nine in the third round with a stiff left to the jaw, but the bout was close despite the knockdown. Bob Lodge, a neophyte to ring warfare, who substituted for the injured Blackie Pearson, twice staggered Coast Guard Academy's Jim Weaver in the light-heavyweight engagement, but the latter generally carried too much equipment for the courageous Terp. Lodge's two persuasive rights to the ehin in the second round failed to offset Weaver's edge in the first and third rounds Boxing summaries:

115 pounds-Dorr (Md.) defeated Mor-Pison.

125 pounds—Goering (C. G.) knocked out Bradley, 1:18, third round.

135 pounds—Alperstein (Md.) defeated Prause (technical knockout after 1:07 of the second round).

Maryland grasped an early lead in the basket ball game, and after the opening moments the tilt developed into mere target practice for the Terps, with the bewildered Dickinson dribblers completely outclassed by the smooth Old Line offense.

Waverly Wheeler and Eddie (Choo-Choo) Johnson established an early margin which Maryland maintained throughout the first half.

Dickinson kept within shouting distance throughout the first half through the efforts of Sammy Padjun and Kinsey Weimar, but never actually proved a threat, trailing, 23-13, at half

The second half was a complete rout. with Johnson pitching baskets fromevery angle to fatten his scoring total by 14 points. Wheeler found the range for 11 points, while Coleman Headley and George Knepley contributed fancy shots that served to keep the spectators interested.

Weimar, a chunky blond, and Padfun, black-haired guard, paced Dickinson's offense with 10 and 8 points, Chance to Reign Again in Conference Lessened by Loss of Pearson.

Maryland's chance of successfully defending its Southern Conference boxing championship Friday and Saturday at Ritchie Coliseum have been dimmed considerably through the loss of Ralph (Blackie) Pearson, who figured to go at least to the finals and very likely, grab the light heavyweight title, the tourney's weakest division.

Employing a left hook to the head South Carolina, Clemson and Citadel are rated even choices to capture the crown, with all entering full teams. Matches among this trio of powerful squads have shown them to be about on a par, with Maryland and Duke classed as outside possibilities.

Maryland Banks on Dorr. The Terps will rely chiefly on Maryland's Dick Johnson, and a more George Dorr, bantamweight, and Benny Alperstein, national intercollegiate lightweight champion. Benny several times this year has fought parently win all three rounds, and the as a 145-pounder, but will trim down crowd was stunned when the usually to 125 for the tourney and will be reliable Short waved West the win- favored to snatch the featherweight crown.

Since generally it is conceded three individual titlists or two winners and two runners-up will be enough to grasp the championship. Maryland also will look to Nathan Askin to travel places in the lightweight division, and hope one of its other glove wielders at least reaches the semifinals. Points are won only by placing men in final bouts. Clemson will depend on Ripper Murray, featherweight; Russell Dorn. 155-pound defending champion, and Bill Cason, undefeated at 165 pounds, while Citadel has Johnny Hughes. 115; Pete Lempesis, runner-up in the 155-pound class last year, and Hugh Rogers, heavyweight, as its aces.

Champion Moves Up. South Carolina's Frank Jenkins. 115-pound champion last year, has moved up to the 125-pound class and figures to be dangerous, as does the Gamecocks' Rex Williams, 165-pound runner-up in 1937

Duke virtually is assured of a title with Danny Farrar in the 145-pound class, and has other contenders in Bobby Price, 115, and Swede Vincent, 165, while North Carolina State and Virginia Tech will send 145-pound threats in Russell Sorrell and Guy Sheppard, respectively.

North Carolina's hopes are Joe Murnick, 125; Joe Fisher, 135, and Crowell Little, 155.
